Grand Canyon one-day tour:

Enjoy an amazing day with Grand Canyon National Park, Sedona and the Navajo Nation from the Phoenix/Scottsdale area.

Sedona will be your first stop along the tour, and guests will have a chance to photograph the famous Red Rocks, stretch their legs and take a quick walk around this picturesque town. From Sedona, the tour passes through Oak Creek Canyon, a scenic byway that winds through 2000 vertical feet of a red walled canyon to emerge surrounded by the dense ponderosa pines of the Coconino National Forest. Atop the Mogollon Rim, you will travel the outskirts of Flagstaff on the way to the South Rim of the Grand Canyon. Guests will enjoy about three hours within the National Park. While at the South Rim of the National Park, you will have opportunities to walk the rim, shop, capture an unlimited amount of photographs, or enjoy your lunch and relax with the best seat in the house. During your time in the National Park you will also explore the infamous 30-mile section of road that winds east along the rim of the canyon, showcasing the best rim views and history along the way. Finally, you will be treated to distant views of the Painted Desert as well as close up views of the Little Colorado River Gorge and Navajo Nation.
